

THE LEGEND OF BAZYLISZEK

Once upon a time in a middle aged warsaw there was a man named melchior who was a brilliant armorer. Armors made by him were very strong and they shined beautifully. He had 2 children, Maciek and Hanna.

Hanna and Maciej were very curious if the story were true, so they went there to find out. At first everything seemed fine, till the time they finally reached the basement. They saw a bunch of statues of people turned into stones. They realised they had made a big mistake coming there and wanted to escape, but it was too late.

Bazyliszek has appeared from the darkest corner of the room. He wasn't a big creature, he had a rooster head, dragon's wings and snakes tail. The most terrifying part of his body were his eyes. One glaze into them was enough to turn you into a stone statue. In the moment, children were immobilized.

After a few hours they father started to wonder where they were. When they didn't come home at night, he knew that the only place they could have went to was the basement on Krzywe Koło street. He figured out that the only way to kill the monster was to use his one power against him. Melchior wore his most shiniest armor, that looked almost like a mirror and went to meet the beast.

As he entered the basement he saw the statues of his children and the wrath for a monster in him grew even bigger, he was not afraid anymore. He closed his eyes and and waited for bazyliszek to come. As soon as monster looked at him and saw himself in melchiors mirror armour, Balyliszek turned himself into stone. At the same time stone statues of all these people trapped in basement started to crush. They were free.
